Manager Decisions on Employee Tool Access

Each entry below shows the manager's decision regarding access to enterprise tools for them direct reports, including the type of change and justification.

Sarah (Operations Manager) – Manager: Raj

Tool: Google Workspace – Decision: Revoke Access

Explanation: Sarah no longer manages user provisioning. Admin access should be revoked to prevent misconfigurations

Tool: Gusto – Decision: Keep Access

Explanation: Required for operational oversight of payroll and employee data

Tool: Confluence – Decision: Keep Access

Explanation: Editor access aligns with the role for internal documentation

Tessa (Creative Director) – Manager: Raj

Tool: Figma – Decision: Keep Access

Explanation: Needs full access to lead creative projects.

Tool: Wistia – Decision: Keep Access

Explanation: Editor rights appropriate for managing video content.

Tool: Slack – Decision: Change Permissions to Editor

Explanation: Admin access not required; Editor role sufficient for communication.

Jared (UX Designer) – Manager: Tessa

Tool: Figma – Decision: Change Permissions to Editor

Explanation: Admin privileges are excessive for design contributors

Tool: Confluence – Decision: Keep Access

Explanation: Editor access required for collaboration.

Tool: Wistia – Decision: Keep Access

Explanation: Viewer role is appropriate.

Tyrell (IT Admin) – Manager: Raj

Tool: Okta – Decision: Keep Access

Explanation: Super Admin access required to manage identity and MFA.

Tool: LastPass – Decision: Keep Access

Explanation: Required for vault and security configuration

Tool: Google Workspace – Decision: Keep Access

Explanation: Needed to manage domains and security

Danielle (Senior Accountant) – Manager: Raj

Tool: QuickBooks – Decision: Keep Access

Explanation: Core to financial role.

Tool: Tableau – Decision: Keep Access

Explanation: Required to access dashboards and financial insights

Tool: Google Drive – Decision: Keep Access

Explanation: Editor access aligns with role